PROMPTER

No matter how well you have memorized and rehearsed your lines there is always the possibility that your mind will go blank and you will forget your next line. At such time you will be more than grateful for the behind-the-scenes service of the "Prompter" who sits in the wings, unseen by the actor, and follows along with the script so people forget their lines, then he whispers them a cue and eases the whole production from coming to a grinding halt.
